

adidas "ADIZERO EVO SL WOVEN ICON PACK" Water-repellent "ADIZERO EVO SL ATR" now available Alpine-exclusive colorways and a novelty campaign

Alpen Co., Ltd. (headquarters: Nagoya, Aichi Prefecture; President and CEO: Mizuno Atsuyuki), a retailer of sporting goods, will begin selling the adidas ADIZERO EVO SL WOVEN ICON PACK from Friday, January 16th, and the water-repellent ADIZERO EVO SL ATR from late January at Sports Depot and Alpen stores nationwide, as well as at its official online store.

The water-repellent ADIZERO EVO SL ATR is available in a colorway exclusive to Sports Depot and Alpen. Starting Friday, January 16th, we will be holding a novelty campaign where customers who purchase the ADIZERO EVO SL WOVEN or ADIZERO EVO SL ATR will receive a limited-edition clear pouch on a first-come, first-served basis. We will also be holding an entry campaign where customers who post a review of the EVO SL WOVEN on social media can enter to win the right to participate in a race or a running clinic.

■What is ADIZERO EVO SL WOVEN?

The ADIZERO EVO SL, Adidas' lightest training shoe, was released in November of last year and quickly captivated runners. The midsole is equipped with the full-length low-density, high-rebound material LIGHTSTRIKE PRO and a nylon DOGBONE in the midfoot area, providing excellent lightness and rebound for a smoother ride, but the upper material has been updated to WOVEN UPPER. Based on a highly elastic material, the shoe is reinforced in the necessary areas to reduce foot movement and improve fit. In addition, the heel cushion has been made thinner to better fit the foot, and TPU material reinforcement in the heel area has improved heel hold.

■What is ADIZERO EVO SL WOVEN ICON PACK/ADIZERO EVO SL ATR?

The ICON PACK, which will be released on Friday, January 16th, features new colorways based on monotone. It is recommended for running, everyday wear, travel, and more.

The ATR, scheduled for release in late January, features a new mudguard and a water-repellent ripstop woven mesh upper. Small nylon dogbones in the midsole provide a smooth, stable ride, while the lug-finished outsole provides firm grip.
